WESTWOOD HIGH SCHOOL
WESTWOOD, MASSACHUSETTS

Dedicated to...

MRS. MIRIAM T. SMITH

We the Class of 1961, are proud to dedicate our Green Years to a teacher who has devoted many years to Westwood High School.

Mrs. Smith, we wish to say thank you for truly making "Latin Live Today" and for your endless patience with our hastily prepared translations.

You will always be remembered not only as a sincere and dedicated teacher, but also as a respected counselor.

FOREWORD

During our school days, each of us has been acquiring knowledge, friendships, truths, and morality. We have found Westwood High School not only an institution of learning but also the hub of our activities.

We welcome graduation with mixed emotions because it marks the end of our school years. In the future, we will be faced with the problems of an everchanging world. However, the principles we have learned and acquired at Westwood will guide us toward the achievement of our goals. Our yearbook is designed to reflect the events of our four years at Westwood High School and to help us relive these memorable experiences.

ADMINISTRATION

To the Class of 1961:

When you reread this book one year, five years, or many years after graduation we hope that your recollections of your undergraduate years will be as happy as the years themselves should have been. You know that the way to happy recollections lies in living on enthusiastic life of service — service to both yourselves and your fellow men.

May all your recollections be happy ones always. They will be so as long as you hold high your ideals.

Sincerely,

Isaiah Chase

CLASS CHRONICLE

As we entered our castle on Nahatan Street in September of 1957, we were typical freshmen—apprentices to high school life. We had our first taste of class distinction when we hurried nervously to find our lockers and hameraams under the patranizing glances of upperclassmen. Soon we met to elect our officers. We chose Edward Nabreski, President; James Quinn, Vice President; Janice Pera, Treasurer; and Marta Findlay, Secretary, to lead us through our freshman year. As we look back on that year, we can vividly remember the turmoil of sponsoring our first high school dance, "Cupid's Paradise." Quite unexpectedly we made a profit from our efforts. Our next achievement was cooking a spaghetti supper for the benefit of the American Field Service.

In June of 1958, we elected the officers of our sophomore year—John Ralton, President; James Quinn, Vice President; Janice Pera, Treasurer; and Marta Findlay, Secretary. During this year we produced dances for Halloween and for St. Patrick's Day; both proved to be profitable. Again we cooked a spaghetti supper for the American Field Service, employing the best cooks of the class. In the spring, we had our first taste of tests—Preparatory National Merit, and Preparatory College Boards. They were nothing compared to what we were to cope with in our junior year.

In September, 1959, we became "upper classmen"—the word alone was music to our ears. We proved our supremacy and maturity when we had "taylor day". Visitors to school included giant teddy bears, taylor chao-chao trains, and a variety of dolls and stuffed animals. We put up with irate teachers, lardly seniors, and juvenile saphamores. The officers for our junior year were Jay Hardigan, President; Robert Quaglieri, Vice President; Janice Brink, Treasurer; and Carol Calavecchia, Secretary. Projects for the year included a victory dance, "Harvest Moon", the play "More than Meets the Eye", and biggest of all, our junior prom. Under the direction of Concetta Mafera and Thomas Macdonald, "Bali-Hai" was most successful. It will long live in our memories as "Same Enchanted Evening".

Tests, tests, tests—would they ever end? College Boards, Scholastic Aptitude Tests, Search for Talent Tests, National Merit Tests—we thought we'd never get through them all.

For the last time we chose officers—Jay Hardigan, President; Robert Quaglieri, Vice President; Janice Brink, Treasurer; and Carol Colavecchio, Secretary, were those we elected for our most important year of high school.

In September, 1960, we began our last year together as one group. We were very glad to welcome Dolores Abelarda, our A.F.S. student from the Philippines, Gundi Hanak from Austria, and Elke Freyer from Germany. In exchange, we sent Janice Pera to spend the summer in Norway through American Field Service. From the first week, when we hustled to get our senior pictures taken, to the last, when teachers hounded us to turn in our textbooks, it seemed as though we were in one continuous whirlwind. Our first project was a record hop, "Touchdown Tumble," and then a second dance called "SSSSS-K", appropriately named for this year's password. Our Senior Play, "Ten Little Indians", turned out to be a great success and added funds to a deflated bankroll. We have now come to the end of our high school years—graduation. After the gaiety of Class Day, our class trip and the banquet, we feel very small and insignificant when we realize that after June, 1961, we will be on our own and leading new and different lives. This year, so reputed as one of fun and excitement, was the end of our public school life—we grabbed at our last chance to be part of "the crowd" which we had known so well for the past twelve years. Were we afraid to face the world? Maybe—but the realization that we were a group of individuals rather than an entity in itself is very startling to any high school senior. And now we are gathered together for one of the last times; we are on the threshold of the future, we hope that we may use to the best of our abilities that which we have learned at Westwood High School.

CLASS SONG

*Westwood days will soon be over;
Gone the cherished red brick walls;
Gone the friends we loved so dearly;
Gone the listening, laughing halls.*

*Soon we go to meet the future;
Meet its challenge, large or small.
Gone the solid reassurance
Of these firm, unmoving halls.*

CLASS POEM

*Sad we are to leave these memories—
Football, dances, class plays, all;
But we scorn to stay forever,
And we leave these cherished halls.*

*So we go to meet the future
And we leave these sheltering walls;
But our hearts will stay forever,
Shadowed in these hallowed halls.*

Priscilla Greer—

THE REVELATION

"South Sea adventurers find island inhabited by Caucasians living under the feudal system of the medieval days," blared the radio. I ran from the coffee room to tell the news to MARSHA M-GEOUGH, a private secretary and old friend who worked in the same building. We both believed these Caucasians to be our classmates from Westwood High. They had been assumed dead since their disappearance ten years ago when on a trip to the South Seas, sponsored by the famous millionaire, TRAVERS FEARING.

After many weeks on the South Seas, our Tagalog speaking guide DOLORES ABELARDO leads us to a strange island. Off shore we find a small boat occupied by JANET LESLIE and MARY LOU MALONEY, diligently diving for pearls. After disembarking, we are led to a strange green castle. Our first sight is of some rebellious young maidens, JOYCE FISHER, LESLEY EGAN, and WENDE SHEFFIELD, swimming in the castle moat. Standing by are three prim and proper attendants, LINDA GROVER, DIANE SINCLAIR, and LOUISE HOLDERRIED. The next person we meet is CHARLES EVANS, head curator of the castle. He is teaching his assistant, JOHN REDMAN, how to sweep the drawbridge. A traveling peddler, JOSEPH SILVA, informs us that this castle belongs to King WILLIAM PETRALIA.

At the gate we are cordially welcomed by the Queen, LEAH GALANDZY. She promptly requests her first attendant, NATALIE WOODWARD, to conduct us on a tour of the castle. While we are walking through the corridors, we are distracted by the chattering of three chamber maids, CAROL COLAVECCHIO, RUTH DELUCA, and DEBORAH COOPER, sitting in the master bedroom, exchanging the latest castle secrets. At the end of the corridor is the main ballroom, being decorated for an extravaganza that evening. The head of the Decorator's Guild, CONCETTA MAFERA, is helping her apprentices, MARCIA HASKELL and MARILYN HEINE, hang a beautiful tapestry, painted by BARBARA KUSSMAUL. We hastily leave when assistants NATALIE WILSON and CAROL TAYLOR drop an enormous chandelier. We are now led to see the king's newest torture machines invented by ALLAN HUGHES and JAMES KNITTER. While passing through the dungeons, we find CAROLYN DURDLE and DAVID KERR who have been arrested for racing their wagons through the center of town. The charge against these two was brought by STEVEN KARCHER whose fruit stand was ruined. In the next cell are JANICE TRIPP and JOAN WATSON, sentenced to three months imprisonment for disturbing the public by their boisterous yelling while shopping at the fish market. Hunger overtakes us, and we proceed to the kitchen where we find the chief cook and bottle washer, JACK PERNAW. He is busy telling his assistant, NANCY PELOQUIN, how to make some medieval mead for tonight's ball. Just as we sit down to eat, in came two prize yeomen, LEE HENRY and CHARLES SILVER, proudly displaying their catch, a field mouse.

The king's secretary, ROBERT DAY, rushes in to inform us that if we hurry, we may hear castle nightingale, SANDRA CARLSON, and her well-known accompanist, MARTA FINDLAY. We spend the rest of the afternoon watching court tumblers, JEAN CRAIGIN, BETTE COLE, and PAULA MAUS, doing backward and forward handsprings, while Court Jester, WILLIAM ROBINSON, with his right-hand man, LOUIS SADLER, keeps us laughing until our sides ache.

That evening at the ball our hostess, JANICE CHEEVER, introduces us to the two visiting potentates, Dame ELKA FREYER and Dame HILDEGUND HANAK. The evening's festivities proceed smoothly until a great argument breaks out between the king of Green Castle and King JAY HARDIGAN of White Castle. They are arguing over the ownership of sub-serf, WILLIAM STEINMETZ's land. When tempers become heated, special boundary consultant ELLIOT COX is called in to decide the matter. For some odd reason, he refuses to give any opinion on the subject. Just as the fists start flying, counselor RICHARD VANHALL suggests that the dispute be settled in a tournament one week hence. Each king is instructed to choose a knight to represent him. The winning knight will receive the sub-serf's land plus the fairest maiden of the island for a wife.

During the week the Guild of Honorable Constructionists, headed by masters JOHN SHEEHY and GARY NOYES, toils diligently to build the stands for the tournament. Even though all his fingers are bandaged, the hard working apprentice, JOHN RALTON, still valiantly tries to hit the nail. Everywhere preparations are being made for this gala event. BRUCE VANFLEET's flower guild is busy gathering flowers for the nuns to arrange. Mother Superior, LYNNE FORSTER, and Sisters VIRGINIA ANDERSON and NATALIE HERSEY are anxious to finish their bouquets. The Reverend monks, JOHN BAYLEY and CHARLES BERKLEY, have stopped their work to edit a program. Their scribes, ROBERTA LOCKE and DOROTHY MacDONALD, are busily making copies in Anglo-Saxon.

The day of the tournament dawns clear and cool. The tournament starts with a strongman act; muscleman DERWIN HYDE achieves the feat of holding his partner, JOSEPH FERNANDES, over his head. Heralds JEFFREY LEA and GARDNER OSGOOD then announce the parade of the knights. It is led by flower girls, JUDITH ANDERSON and BARBARA BAKER, who strew flowers in the path of the two competing knights: PHILIP POTTER representing the Green, and ROBERT QUAGLIERI, the White.

Green Castle's first choice is Knight-Errant JAMES QUINN. Unfortunately he is away trying to capture ROBIN GOOD and her band of merry girls, LYNN INGRAHAM, HARRIETT HOBSON, and ELIZABETH PETRALIA.

The fairest maiden of the island, JANICE BRINK, and her two attendants SUSAN JOHNSON and SUSAN KREISER nervously await the outcome of the event. All three are dressed in beautiful gowns from the House of Conwa, which yearly presents the latest medieval fashions, designed by MICHAEL CONFORTI and DAVID WALKER. In the stands LOUISE RITTER and PATRICIA REZENDES are selling rare nuts from Brazil. ANNE VOGEL and ALICE OEHME are selling toll, cool glasses of potent mead.

Squires THOMAS MacDONALD and JOHN HAYES have a hard time preparing their heavily armored knights for the first joust. Both are finally ready when Green's knight falls off his trusty steed. Pages ROBERT GUIOD and JOHN RUTLEDGE desperately attempt to reseat him on his horse; but his bent armor renders his limbs immovable, and he is too heavy to lift. At this moment "Kill" -R- KILLELEA's ambulance service dashes into the arena. Nurses CHRISTINE SCHEELE and MARY JANE MAHONEY rush to the aid of doctor RICHARD SWANSON. Interns JOHN NELSON and TERENCE SULLIVAN hoist the fallen knight onto the ambulance cart, and it speedily leaves the arena. Thus the tournament ends with White's winning by default.

White castle's thane RICHARD TOLENTINO invites us to accompany him on a tour of the serf's lands along the northern boundary. As we trot by on our horses, we see ANNE BARRY and MAUREEN MAGEE washing their hogs before taking them to market. In serf ARTHUR MILLER's nearby fields ANN HARROW, ANN GLENNON, and RAINER BERTRAMS are industriously raking the potatoe fields. Our next stop is at the home of WALTER MORETON. He has just hired the honorable guild of Ditch Diggers, composed of PATRICIA NELSON, INGRID JOHNSON, and MARY-ANN ZABILSKI, to construct a trench through his home in order that he might have running water. Suddenly we see before our eyes JOYCE PONZEK on a runaway horse flying by HOWARD JOHNSON's famous 28 flavored oat station. Next we approach the elaborate estate of franklin EDWARD NABRESKI. Reeve ARTHUR STURGIS invites us in to supper. We find many noted guests gathered around the table covered with unsurpassed culinary arts. Seated at the franklin's left is wealthy merchant RONALD PITCHFORD with his captain, pirateer black-beard MARSHALL ARLIN. Sitting next to them are CYNTHIA, MARJORIE, KAREN, and MARGO from the prominent firm of lawyers known as BAYLEY, BICKNELL, BENSON and BLASER incorporated.

After supper the stage is set for the Theater Guild's production from Mort d'Arthur. The play is produced and directed by RAYMOND MATTSON, famous all over the island. The main characters in the play are portrayed by the three outstanding actors of the day, SHEILA McDOUGALL, CONSTANCE SMITH, and KARL PEARSON. We are amazed by the authentic sound effects and charming background music provided by the combined efforts of PRISCILLA GREER and ROBERT LEXTH, and by the excellent lighting job performed by DAVID HODGDON. To end this most entertaining evening in grand style, the "Chariottes," MARY FLETCHER, JUDITH CRAGG, VIRGINIA DESANTIS, PATRICIA REARDON, and JOANNE HANSON, overwhelm us with one of their intricate dancing maneuvers.

The next day we have the honor of attending the last meeting of the interkingdom council. The question it has been discussing for the past few days is the abandoning of the feudalistic system for a democratic form of government. Adviser and diplomat of White castle, DARYL COSTOS, has presented its case favoring the continuance of the feudalistic system while Green's representative, RUTH THURSTON, has stated that her king is willing to liberate his serfs. SUSAN O'NEIL representing the town guilds, is now about to speak. She gives such a moving speech on the rights of man to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness that all decide by a peaceful revolution to establish a democratic government to rule forever on the island. In future years that small South Sea island will set an example of what can be achieved by peaceful negotiation:

King Robert Compton and Queen Carol McColl with thier royal court.

OUR JUNIOR PROM

I crown thee Queen of the Prom.

Hors d'oeuvres.

The chaperones

As we stepped through the doorway, we entered the land of Bali-Hai. Here before us was all the enchantment of the South Pacific. From the glittering mural to the fabulously decorated throne, our prom proved to be a memorable evening. Our chaperones chose Carol McCall and her escort Robert Compton as king and queen. Members of the court were: Sheila McDougall, Cynthia Bayley, Marsha Maus, Ellen Milley, and Joan Carey. It was only through careful planning and hard work that the fantasy of Bali-Hai became a dream come true.

Two, please

Here's how we'll do it . . .

Mr. Music

Such a night

GIFTS...

STUDENT COUNCIL

This year the Student Council made many contributions to the activities of W.H.S. Council members were elected from the home rooms and officers voted by council members.

Accomplishments this year include the securing of a Coke machine in the lower lobby, Bermuda Doy, and the tremendous success of the Snow Flake Frolic.

Congratulations to Edward Nobreski for heading the Council. Special thanks to Miss Keenan for her many hours of service.

The Student Council's term was completed by the annual banquet attended by all members.

NAHATAN NEWS

With this year's Editor-in-chief, Ruth Thurston, and Associate Editors, Marta Findlay and Patricia Nelson, the Nahatan News has maintained its outstanding reputation as a school newspaper. The advisor, Mr. George Hancox, has assisted its capable staff in presenting the news in an interesting manner. This popular newspaper has kept the students well informed of the extra-curricular activities and has done much to bolster the spirit at Westwood High School.

W.H.S. Band Entertains Between Halfs

This year's band of 60 pieces has brought many honors to Westwood. Under the direction of Mr. John Markarian, they have marched in the Veteran's parade in Boston, entertained at the halftime of the Boston Patriots Football game, presented a Band Concert, hosted the Southeastern Music Festival, marched in Westwood on Memorial Day, and will finish this year with a four day trip to Atlantic City, New Jersey, representing the state of Massachusetts at the National Lions Convention.

Dance Band And Orchestra Win Praise

The Orchestra is another part of our music system which brings credit to Mr. John Markarian and Westwood High School. They have practiced faithfully to present the Band and Orchestra Concert and receive an "A" rating at the Music Festival.

Under the direction of Mr. Monaghan, the Westwood Dance Band has provided excellent music for many of our High School dances. Special recognition goes to Jeffry Lea, Richard Van Hall, Gardner Osgood, and Karl Pearson for their long service to the band.

VOICES LIFTED IN SONG

Mr. Morkarion, Director of Music, has worked extremely hard to prepare over three hundred voices for public performance. The Chorus presented "Led By A Star" for the Christmas Contato and four selections; "Boom Fo Da Ro Lo", "Go Song of Mine", "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor" and "Ave Verum" for a spring concert.

The Double Quartet performed in its usual superb manner at the musical activities this season. One of the highlights of the musical activities was the hosting of the Conference Music Festival for all schools in this section of Massachusetts.

TRICK TWIRLERS
Barbara Baker and Judith Anderson

All of last year's majorettes returned again this fall to colorfully join the band at parades and football halftimes. Seniors Judith Anderson and Barbara Baker as Trick Twirlers were responsible for their intricate steps and routines. Credit is also given to Ruth Abernathy as Head of the Band and senior Diane Sinclair.

SCIENCE FAIR COMMITTEE

The Science Fair Committee was faced with the enormous task of insuring the successful operation of the Science Fair which was held on March 24. Months of extensive preparation go into the fair. Such important factors as lighting, electrical current, circuits and project placement are climaxed by the judging and awarding of prizes.

As usual, our Science Fair was a terrific success. Mr. Sarris, teachers of the Science Department and Committee Members deserve our congratulations.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The Chemistry Club is one of our smaller clubs, but very active. Under the direction of Mr. Van de Workeen, chemistry projects and experiments are conducted in the laboratories. Members of the club are very busy with chemical testing and surveys. Outside community resources are available and frequently called upon. With the addition of the new labs, more facilities will be available and the club will more than likely expand its membership.

FRENCH CLUB

Le Cercle Francais, under the leadership of Mrs. Eaton, had a fun-filled educational year. The enthusiasm for the French Club is illustrated by its size alone.

The officers of the French Club were: Constance Smith, President; Robert Quaglieri, Treasurer; Robert Chamberlin, Vice-President and Ruth Abernathy, Secretary.

GERMAN CLUB

The German Club, under the direction of Mrs. Valentine, enjoyed many activities to help further its knowledge of German life.

Christmas caroling, parties, movies, and related plays were among the enjoyable activities shared by the club this year.

SPORTS

"Arise, go forth and conquer,

Sports comprise an integral part of our life at Westwood High School. Whether we participate actively or as enthusiastic observers, the sports program serves to strengthen character and improve school spirit and morale. This year the Wolverines were highly successful in their football and basketball seasons.

The 7-1-1 record amassed by the Westwood Wolverines in their 1960 football edition ranks as one of the most spectacular and surprising achievements in Westwood athletic history. It was thought to be a year for rebuilding and few wins, as the Green and White had last eight of 1960's starting team. However, tremendous performances by previously unheralded players such as junior tackle Bill Carcamo, sophomore Ken North and Jack Maguire, were coupled with steady showings by returning linemen Bruce Van Fleet, Bill Petralia, and Paul Kristensen. Not to be overlooked was the return of John Caakson who, after a 1959 injury, established a new all-time Westwood rushing record of 1038 yards. Tom Macdonald led the team in pass receiving while Bob Quaglieri and Ed Buzzell turned in several clutch performances.

Credit is due all the players for an exciting season of top-notch football.

Thru The Rim

Coach Pender's Wolverines of 1961 ranked as the finest local five in several years. By combining determination, hustle and great desire, the Green was able to put together winning streaks of seven and four to gain a tie for first place in the tough Hockomock League. On the merits of its fine record, the well-drilled squad gained the first Tech tourney berth in Wolverine hoop history. Westwood, rated as a dark horse in a feature sports story in the Boston Globe, rolled over Abington 84-56 before being edged by Foxboro. The Wolverines' 13 and 4 record is a tribute to the value of good coaching and hard work.

With Cici Mafero as Captain, the Westwood High School Cheerleaders helped our boys to win top honors in football and basketball this year. They also hosted several towns at a Cheering Competition here this winter and participated in the Mansfield Competition.

Victorious!

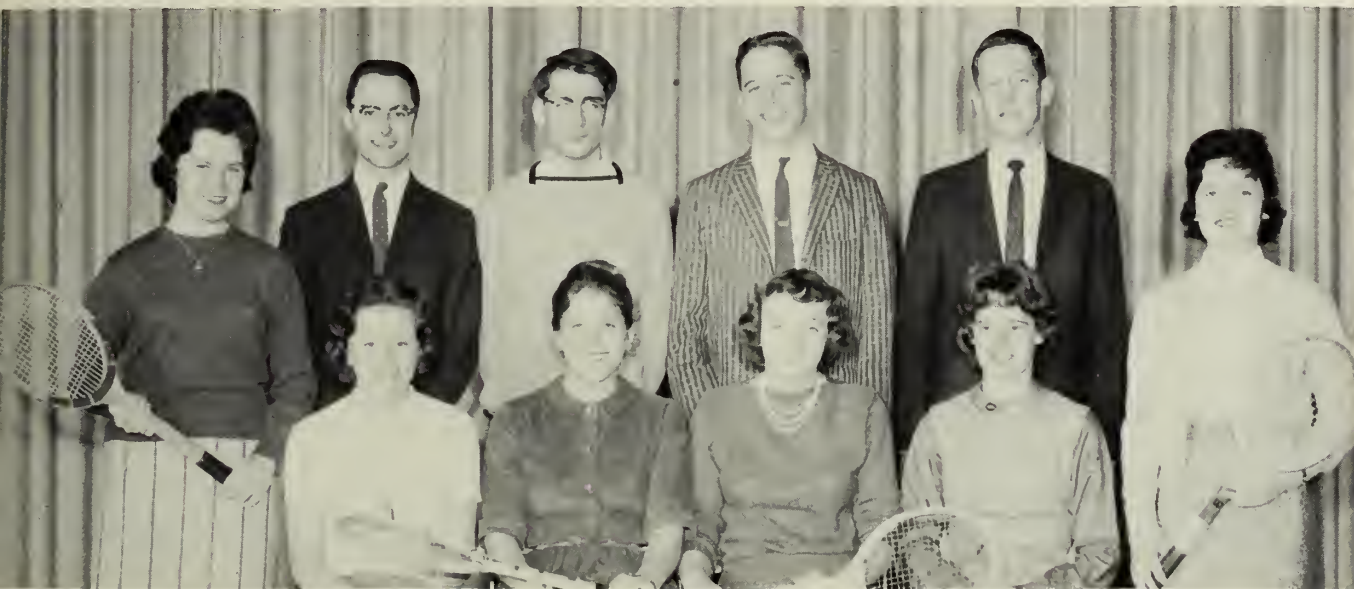

Under the watchful eyes of Mrs. Hall, the team had a fairly successful season. With the help of veterans Janice Brink, Cicci Mafra and Bette Cole, the team won impressive victories over Sharon and Weston. Bette Cole showed great promise after being on the squad only one year.

Under the direction of its coach, Mr. Ralph Chambers, the boys' team had an extremely successful season. The many victories should be attributed to the skill of Rainer Bertrams, John Redman and Jeff Lea.

Many new skills were developed in both squads along with the good sportsmanship and spirit typical of Westwood High School.
